NEW YORK CITY.

Communists, êic.

NEW YORK, January 29 .- The repairs to the steering gear of the monitor Dictator are completed, and that vessel dropped down to Compass station yesterday preparatory to proceeding to Key West, under convoy of the Juniata. The two vessels will probably arrive there within seven days.

Long Island City has a new sensation in the shape of a haunted house, situated on Jackson avenue. The landlord until a couple of weeks ago had been unable to rent it, when a family named Daly hired the building for a nominal sum. They lived in peace for a week, when a few minutes after they retired sounds were heard and then trans ferred to other portions of the house.

On Tuesday night the programme was repeated, with variations of cries of murder, creating great confusion and alarm among the family. One of the children was so thoroughly frightened that it was thrown into convulsions, and has since died. The premises were overhauled but nothing found to throw any light on the mystery. Yester-day the Daly family moved out and to-day a rigid investigation takes place, and the hoax. if it is one, will probably be ventilated.
It is stated that Mrs. Henry W. Genet, wife of the fugitive, secured passage for Europe, and leaves on one of the ocean steamers Saturday. Charles Bradlaugh sailed yesterday for Europe. Previous to his departure he received a deputation of the various trades' unions at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and was presented with a gold headed walking cane. The trial of Mrs. M. T. Meiser for the murder of Miss Margaret Hamilton, in September last, will be called in the Brooklyn Court of Oyer and Terminer this morning. The steamer Arapiles has not yet left these waters. While attempting yesterday to cross the bar at Sandy Hook she struck and last night was still fast on the bar.

Police Superintendent Matsell fears the Communists in New York mean mischief. Threats against the churches and school houses have, he says, been frequently made since the Tompkins Square riot. Especial watch on the churches and school house, and especially on the churches in the Eleventh ward, has been kept. The Wall street markets were dull vester day and the slight fluctuations of the day were attributable to no particular cause.

The stockholders of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company held a meeting yesday and elected trustees for the ensuing

It is said this stock will soon be placed up-on the Stock Exchange list. The bonds and money held by Donnell, Lawson & Co., bankers, to the credit of the Kansas City, Memphis and Mobile Railroad Company, have been attached by Wm. F. Chittenden, in a suit begun by him in the Supreme Court for the recovery of a debt of $3,500,—the amount of loan warrants executed by the President of the road January 28, 1873, in favor of James Hilis & Co., and now unpaid and in possession of Chittenden.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Burning of the Olympic Theater at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, January 29.—The Olympic Theater, on Market street, caught fire in the green room at three o'clock this morning.
The flames spread rapidly, and the entire structure was speedily consumed. Great excitement prevailed in the neighborhood, and fears were entertained for the safety of St. John's Catholic Church. Two firemen were killed. Loss heavy; full amount not yet ascertained.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The fire at the Olympic Theater completely desroyed the building, valued at $60,000. The building belonged to Prentzell & Tate, and was leased by Thomas H. Johnson & Co., who recently fitted up the theater at an expense of $21,000.

Harry Mack lost all his performing dogs, and the artists lost their costumes. Two firemen, George W. Devitt and Charles O'Neill, were killed, and four more seriously injured.

The first story was occupied by several firms. St. John's Church was not injured but the parsonage was slightly damaged. The aggregate loss will be $100,000. mostly covered by insurance.

Horse Thief Caught-Attempted Suicide, etc.

KENDALLVILLE, January 29 .- Mr. Rechter, livery stable keeper at Burr Ook, Michigan, had a span of horses and a new open buggy stolen from his stable Monday night. Yesterday the horses were put in a livery stable here. This put the City Marshal on the track of the thief and he caught him on a train going west. The thief proved to be a young man named William Cole, who had hired to Mr. Rechter a day or two previous, evidently with the intention of stealing the horses. An officer from Waterloo was here last evening for the same young man for stealing money. It is thought this man has been carrying on the thieving business in Southern Michigan for some time. To-day Mr. Rechter came with an officer and takes the thief and horses to Burr Oak.

FORT WAYNE, January 29.—Tuesday night L. N. Pilgrim attempted suicide: The druggist suspected his intentions when he asked for arsenic, and gave him an emetic instead. Pilgrim wrote a note to his wife that he had killed himself. Upon opening the door his friends found him undergoing a severe case of vomiting, but in no danger. He has been drinking a great deal lately, and this is supposed to be the cause. posed to be the cause.

The District Ring Disgusted.

[Special to the Cincinnati Gazette of to-day.] At no time since the District Government was formed has there been more fluttering among those composing it and those who always support it, than in Congress to-day. On Monday, when Congress adjourned, all members of the ring were in high spirits over the failure in both houses to secure any counarrived last night and this morning from various quarters containing letters to and from members of the ring, there was universal discouragement. To-day Mr. Shepherd's two papers are out in full hue and cry, one de-nouncing those who have printed letters of the ring as thieves, and the other writing at length on hyenas of the press.

NEW YORK.

The Result of Carelessness. Rochester, January 29.—J. Stearns, of Coldwater, Michigan, while lunching at the Brackett House refreshment counter yester-day afternoon, left a satchel containing pa-pers, mortgages, etc., valued at $8,000, in a pers, mortgages, etc., valued at $8.000, in a corner of the room. When he looked for the satchel it had disappeared. No clue to the thief as yet.

Postoffice building having been expended, the men quit work this morning, and operations will not be resumed until Uncle Sam shells out again. The portion of the new structure to be occupied by the postal department, is nearly ready for the floor. The opinion that the police force is insufficient to protect persons and property appears to be a general one, even among Councilmen, but the latter think the city can not afford any increase. One of the City Fathers expressed the thought this morning that there should be a policeman, to every four or five squares.

New Buildings. J. R. Marot procured a permit this morning to erect a brick business block, 40 by 63 feer, on Delaware street, between Washington and Maryland, the estimated cost being $10,000. A permit was also issued to Henry Schnull, to remodel the Palmer House at a Gas Company. The latter can tell you all cost of $10,000.

She was cared for at the Sherman House, and afterwards removed to her home in North Indianapolis.

Dr. Withrow on Editors.

In that letter to the Sunday School Times, Dr. Withrow says of the editors of Indianapolis:

It is an exaggerated statement that our editors of daily newspapers "wear diamond breatpins as big as beans." They are smart enough to deserve these, and more, but, maybe through deference to panic times, they expose only modest but as immaculate a shirt-front as any of their fellow-eountrymen. They shine their diamonds from their pages, rather than from their dickeys.

Jerry Bush's Trial.

As noted yesterday, Jerry Bush's trial for the attempted killing of Harvy Vance, was commenced before a jury in the Criminal Court, and during the afternoon evidence was introduced to substantiate the statements already published, that on the evening of December 27, he really did attempt the life of the complainant. To-day evidence was introduced to show: 1, that the shot was fired from a point some distance in rear of defendant; 2, his good moral character—and up till noon the case hardly looked like Bush would be convicted. The argument has already been commenced, Elam opening for the State—to be followed by Leathers. The defense was given until this afternoon to "PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22, 1738-9. prepare a "charge" for the jury, but whether Judge Test endorses it is altogether another question.

GIBSON ON COKE. Councilman David Explains the Coke Ordinance to a Benighted Reporter – Why the City Attorney was Asked for His Opinion.

A News reporter, on going into the office of the City Attorney this morning, in search of information as to why the City Council had asked the opinion of that offi ial in regard to the ordinance fixing bushel of coke at 2,680 cubic inches instead consider Byers's challenge to play a bil-liard match for $500 at present, but that he will be heard from before the limited time has expired.

The assault on letter carrier Downey is being investigated. The law provides that being investigated. The law provides that his mission, the reporter was informed by > playing with the interrogation stop pulled open—not to put too fine a point upon it, SPECIAL the following interview occurred:

> Reporter—Well, I should be glad to learn anything from you about this coke ordinance, Mr. Gibson. Mr. Gibson-The Ordinance was passed providing for the sale of coal by weight and coke by measurement, because the latter is BODY BRUSSELS, capable of absorbing too much moisture to be sold by weight; if it were the quantity a consumer would get, it would be regulated by the state of the weather.

Reporter-But why was the bushel of 2,680 inches adopted, instead of the statutory one of 2,150? Mr. G.—Because that is the Pittsburg standard. The gas company here have always sold to the dealers at the rate of 2,678 cubic inches to the bushel, which weighs on an average 35 pounds, when I believe the statute fixes the weight of a bushel of coke at 45 pounds. The dealers are only required to give 2,680 inches in weight, a fraction over 34 pounds, saving eight inches of their purchase from the

about it. R .- But the dealers argue that they are thus forced to sell five pecks for a bushel? Mr. G.—Five pecks, fiddlesticks! A bushel of wheat is the standard bushel measure, evenly filled; a bushel of potatoes, two half bushel measures each heaped as high as posssible; a half bushel of corn Factory stable, near the Yellow Bridge, in the ear, consists of three peck measures which had ignited from a spark from the of the ordinary standard full; the measure blacksmith shop. Loss small-less than ment of coke is made on the same principle as the latter. R.—If the Council has the right to regulate the standard, why is the City Attorney asked for his opinion?

Here Mr. Gibson made a bee line for the door, and the reporter, feeling much edified, sauntered out after him.

Franklin's Breeches.

We can imagine from the following advertisement the intense disgust of the Philosopher at discovering the larceny of his favorite "leather seated" breeches. He went into print in the Pennsylvania Gazette of February 22, 1739, 9 as follows: y 22, 1738-9, as follows:
"STOLEN—B. Franklin's New Seated

Breeches.-Stolen on the 15th instant, by one William Lloyd, out of the house of Benone William Lloyd, out of the house of Ben-jamin Franklin, an half worn Sagathee Coat, lined with Silk, four fine homespun Shirts, a fine Holland Shirt, ruffled at the hands and bosom, a pair of black broadcloth Breeches, new seated and lined with leather, two pair of good worsted Stockings, one of a dark colour, and the other of a lightish blue, a coarse Cambric Handkerchief, marked with an F in red silk, a new pair of Calf Skin Shoes, a Boy's new Castor Hat, and sundry other Things.

"N. B.—The said Lloyd pretends to understand Latin and Greek, and has been a School master; He is an Irishman about 30 Years of Age, tall and slim. Had on a light-ish Colour'd Great Coat, red Jacket, a pair of Black Silk Breeches, an old felt Hat, too little for him, and sewed on the side of the Crown with white Thread, and an old dark-coloured Wig; but may perhaps wear some of the clothes above mentioned.

"Whoever secures the said Thief so that he may be brought to Justice, shall have Thirty Shillings Reward and reasonable charges, paid by B. Franklin.

The Canning Business.

[Journal of Chemistry.]

The number of cans of peaches packed, last year, approximated about 12,000,000, tomatoes 18,000,000, and corn from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000. The headquarters of peach canning are in Maryland and Delaware, more than half the peach packing firms hailing from Baltimore alone. Large quantities of oysters are also put up along the Chesapeake. Tomatoes come chiefly from New Jersey, although many are packed in Baltimore, New York and the Fastern States. The best corn York and the Eastern States. The best corn comes from Maine, whese also are situated the largest lobster establishments. One establishment at Nassau, Bahama Islands, has about $200,000 invested, and employs 600 hands in canning pine apples. This season they purchased 1,000,000 pine apples and packed 1,010,000 cans. The pine apples cost them from eighteen to forty cents per dozen in gold, and the canned fruit is sold for about $4.50 denied that Chief Justice Taney used the language touching negro rights in the Dred Scott case, imputed to him, except to condemn it, and quoted what he claimed to be the exact language. We have the Dred Scott case, arguments, opinions and all, somewhere, but being unable at the moment to lay hands upon it, we quote from the New American Cyclopedia, excellent authority: "For more than a century pre-'vious to the adoption of the Declaration "of Independence, negroes, whether slaves 'or free, had been regarded as" (so far the Encyclopedia is stating Taney's opinion, then it quotes literally:) "'beings of an in-'ferior order, and altogether unfit to asso-'or political relations, and so far infe-'rior that they had no rights which 'a white man was bound to respect.'" As we remarked the other day, we have park brought about the spirit in the Counseen several plausible and elaborate efforts to prove that the Judge was really quoting this language, not uttering it as his own. If we made few improvements, we needed few. Our Councilmen were among the best men, usually, in the place. Now, what are they? Look at some of them at the next meeting, and see, and with us lament the departure of the "golden age." There is not much more to be proud of in a rich eity that is plundered and gouged on all sides by its legislature, than in a poor one that is honestly administered, and a Council composed of such men as Shepherd and Kennington and Reagan and McLaughlin delight the heart of an Indianapolitan who remembers in the same body such men as Scudder and Culley and Newcomb and Jameson and Fletcher and Coburn. When it shall be prudent and economical to supoly a little boy with all the clothes he is likely to need as a grown up man, it will be wise to pay out money for "improvements" that won't be needed for years to come, not before.

An Ant Battle.

[Waynesborough, Tennessee, Banner.] William Norman, a citizen of this place, while on a visit to Lawrenceburg last sum-mer, was called into an old field by Mr. Mc-Lean, to witness a fight between two colonies of ants, one the small red ant, about oneeighth of an inch long; the other a brown ant, about one-fourth of an incli long.

It seems that the brown ants had attacked the red ants in their holes, driving and whipping them outside. After the red ants be found in the space of three yards square, which was the size of the battle-ground.

The brown ants would throw out skirmish ers, who would advance near to the red ants, and were immediately attacked by the reds and nearly annihilated, the survivors returntions, the brown ants pursuing, and killing

They displayed as much bravery, evinced as much judgment, as intelligent human beings. The red ants would not risk the Secretary and Surveyor General. There seems to be a bitter opposition to the confirmation of McCook as Governor, and a request to retain Elbert, signed by all but two of the Republican members of the Legislature, was forwarded to-day to President and were forced off only by the guns fired forant. THE PANIC.

The Recovery from it with a Few Re marks on the Currency.

[From the New York Financier.] One week less than four four months ago, the financial whirlwind which is yet so re cent that its movements need not be recounted broke in this city and swept over the country. That brief season of Wall street jammed and the Exchanges howling; of banks besieged by a crowd from whom rea-son had departed; of a market all choked with securities flung into it for sale; of men wild with a fever to get rid of their property about all others, seems to be strong in proon any terms; of eagerness to get, and fearwas so unlike the present position that it papers that tried to feed sensation in order thrive by it and now ought to be punished by the public by being let alone, the old press kept cool and did all that could be edly done by argument and entreaty to restrain that John Cand Walter Blake have gone to serve"—that statutory bugbear which serves lows whole the latter proposes to start a no purpose but to embarrass the banks and be only temporary. Business will concealed, show an average excess of nearly or quite $50,000,000 now. Jay Cooke &Co. Washington to attend the National School loss of prestige; many less important firms have resumed, and others will yet resume. Richard Saxon and John McBride, barbank dividends, and no omission except in the case of one institution which has suffer and a monument is to be erected to his ed a small impairment but whose stockholders have promptly and cheerfully accepted and amended the situation by reducing the stock. The Bank of the Commonwealth is the only corporate institution here ruined. We are very far from under-estimating now, as we tried during the panie to keep the public from over-estimating, the importance and duration of its evil results. New ance and duration of its evil results. New railroad construction having been stopped, the industries largely dependent upon that construction, and the industries in like manner dependent upon them, feel the depression; no industry can languish, unless it is superseded by some improvement in methods of production or becomes gradually use-

But the panic itself is over, and that is much. Four months ago, judging from their general tone if not from their actual words, one would have supposed that in the estimation of many it was idle to talk of any more investing; check-books were to be useless, for hoarding was to be the general practice and depositors were to be rare visitors to banks after they had once got out their money; no more interest and divi-dends would be paid, and no more business to be done. The hen which had a rose-leaf fall on her back and directly set the whole poultry-yard in a ferment by starting a report that the sky was falling was not more unreasoning and silly than the people—and they were a multitude-whose forebodings saw almost the end of the world financially, just because they were badly frightened. They clutched at the paper money of the period and wanted nothing else, just as they would have clutched at gold itself, if that could have been had; but they forgot that while he who seizes gold in a sudden calamity and flees can use his gold in any part of the world, the paper money of the United States is a product of home in-dustry solely, "protected" without a tariff by reason of its inherent worthlessness.

> ouch it or give any value for it. And even at home, it is a fair-weather money, supported partly by the force of statute and partly by the very buoyancy of trade which incon-vertible paper always temporarily produces. Its advocates are in the habit of calling it a currency supported by the whole wealth of the nation, which is a fine thing to say; but the panic-stricken people of last September forgot that if their worst imaginings were realized and the whole business fabric of the ountry went by the board and nothing remained but dust and ashes, their paper money would share the common fate and would be as worthless as the other forms of paper they were so wild to get rid of; and furthermore, that although ready money, though it were paper, would acquire an extra purchasing power in the panic, forced sales of other things in order to get the paper would offset the profit on purchases by the losses on sales, and that the use and value of property purchased de pended upon the very prosperity of business which the fearful thought had departed. The folly of his action might have been stated to a panic-stricken man in this wise

"You want money because you have loss faith in property, of course. Very good this illustrates your prudent forethought But as you can not eat money, or wear it, o build houses of it, or make things out of it you must want it to exchange for property And if the world is coming to an end, so that no more business is to be done and no nore prosperity is to be enjoyed, what good will your property do you after you get it. And if the world is not coming to an end and so on, why don't you keep the property you now have and why are you tearing around in this manner? If you will act should give encouragement to the cause of education by attending. The examina-will stop long enough to think, you will see that you are flying before a storm of your own making. The readiest moral to be drawn from this just the same the next time that a general disturbance of "confidence" occurs. There is no preventive of panic, for it is a shadow which always lingers behind the march of credit, and to put a certain end to the recurring of panics it will be necessary to do away with credit and return to the primitive hoarding. If every man holds fast in his hands all he gets or buries it in some place of fancied security, there will be no more financial crises, and this will be the millennium of no-borrowing and no-lending; but so long as men lend property in the expec-The News, last Monday week. A panic puts an end to a thousand schemes, diminishes the demand for capital, lessens the desire for large-promising investments and turns public attention instead to enterprises compled or at least beyond the exper mental stage. Then after awhile prosperity and activity return to business and they in spire renewed confidence in the future; the country begins to grow, in fact, on paper, and in extravagant expectation; confidence revives and extends credit, and upon that follow the eager desire to take a short cut to wealth across the beaten road of labor, the appearance of "promoters" with new schemes, the credulous faith in their promises, the investment of real capital—i. e., human labor—in enterprises which are premature and can not be productive for some years; then come the gradually realized sense that the matter has been overdone, the slackening of the lending process; the conse quent break-down of one enterprise another as its supplies are cut off, the sudden discovery that many investments are only paper schemes, the general demand simultaneously made by every lender upon every borrower, the frantic rush to "realize," the suspensions and all the other character istics of panic. The panic is all over now, to blame because they lacked supernatural servative course. The panic is all over now, not in its consequences, but in the fact of its existence. The banks, whose legal 'reserve'—that statutory bugbear which serves frighten the public, both equally without good cause—went down so low that its condition was sedulously (and doubtless wisely) and is doing so every day; but no rebound ly be expected. > This will prove most true, if only this blessed result follows, that currency im-provement is insisted upon and affected. Bad currency, stimulating together the upspringing of new borrowing enterprises and springing of new borrowing enterprises and the unquestioning credulity of lenders, has been more than anything else the direct cause of the trouble. Possibly we shall not generally see this and it will be left to the discernment of those who read of this period in history, and wonder at the fatuity which could not and would not see it at the time.

THE EVENING NEWS FOR 1874.

The News in the future will be governed by the same principles which have guided its course from the start. It will be independent in tone, fearless in its criticisms of public affairs, and will wield all its powers in the maintenance of the saving, forces of society. Pledged to the tenets of no party Politically The Weekly News is an of public officials and expose the self seekit is ever free to condemn the wrong doing independent paper. It is bound to no ing plunderers who are robbing the taxpay party, owes fealty to no set of mea- ers and trying to demoralize our institutions. So, too, it is ever at liberty to praise and defend the right, whether or not it be for the moment the interest of one party or the impartial consideration, and strikes at other to disparage and ridicule it. It has whatever may be bad and vicious in no entangling alliances, and with the motto either party, whether it be a Democrat aim to give the people a thorough and com-Tammany or a Republican Credit prehensive knowledge of all facts that they Mobilier or back pay grab. A few cents spent in such advertisements often saves a great expenditure of time and money, and the returns are often immense. The newspaper publishing these advertisements is greatly sought after by strangers and visitors to the city, as well as by residents, which makes general advertising more valuable. The News was the first paper to supply this want and to put the business at such a price as would enable every one to receive the benefit of it. The News in this, as in every other respect, is emphatically the people's paper. Economy is now the order of the day, but it is not economy to do without a daily paper. It may offer chances for employment money making, to lose sight of which might cause distress and injury. Every man and woman needs to keep thoroughly acquainted with the current news, both local and general, and there is no friend and helper and educator like the newspapers. A man had better go without one meal a week than without his paper, and there is no use of his dispensing with it on the score of economy while the price of The News is only ten cents a week. It gives a complete only ten cents a week. It gives a complete and concise resume of all the events of the day, covering in a condensed form the whole field to which larger papers devote more space, Take it, read it and advertise in it and you will be benefited.

CLEAR GRIT.

Robert Collyer's Lecture and Reception Masonic Hall was not crowded last night, but there was a large audience of our best citizens present. The speaker was introduced in a few fitting words by Hon. W. W. Curry, and announced that through some misapprehension he had brought his lecture "Clear Grit" in place of the an-nounced, "Our Folks and Other Folks," but he assured his audience that the lec-ture in hand was much better than the other, which reconciled them at once to the situation. The lecture was full of sound sense, and was of the kind that is so well considered and concentrated that no abstract can be made of it, being itself a synopsis of the thought of the speaker. The foundation stone of clear grit was the determination to do an honest day's work, to bring out the best that is in us, to do our level best, regardless of any allure-ment, though angels be the tempters. Clear grit manifested its existence: First, in an honest day's work. Second, in the acquirement of a home and family. Third, in attending to this while young. Fourth, in hanging on and being content. He distinguished clear grit from falling by various apt illustrations, citing the lives of Fisk, Tweed and others of their class, who came so near being splendid men and yet fell so far to the other extreme. There was nothing so much like a splendid angel as a splendid devil.

The clear grit of the lecturer shone in every sentence of the lecture. Its good square, blacksmith sense was embellished ith genuine wit, pathos and eloquence.

Mr. Collyer is a man of medium hight, thick-set, with square shoulders, a massive head, which drops forward in his more earnest sentences, giving them a peculiar emphasis and force. His hair is abundant, and nearly white. He seems like a powneeded, but polished and perfectly fitted to new. its work in all its parts.

After the lecture, which was concluded at half-past nine, Mr. Collyer went to the residence of Ralph Tousey, corner of Third and Tennessee, where he received quite a number of the leading citizens, including the Governor and State officers and their 22 East Washington Street. wives, Hon. A. G. Porter, Prof. Bell, Judge Finch and others. Mrs. Tousey received GENT'S FUR COLLARS! and presented the guests.

Seeking a Fight and Finding It.

That was a funny four-footed incident one a big woolly fellow, another an average sized mongrel, and the third a pup with sufficient rat terrier blood to make him saucy. These three had apparently formed Bamberger has an elegant some kind of a partnership, and they ranged up and down the street, spoiling for a muss and making it mighty hot for farmer's canines, full blooded terriers, and even larger game. A big Newfoundland, who sought to put on airs, was cuffed and driven into a saloon for protection, a cow was chased down the tunnel slope, a small boy was made to scratch gravel, and two or three incautious piggies were unmercapermeated through each doggish frame, and they walked around with stiffened spines, aching for a row. The "mongrel," having the big woolly and the rat terrier pup to back him, was especially obtrusive; in fact, it was he to first do the smelling and open the fight, and then the rascal would stand back and wag his tail, as much as to say, "Go in, pards!" and the pards would go in and chaw the offending party-"Mongrel"

Who makes a specialty of fine watch a full blooded bull, with lowering eye and fangs well set in massive jaws. "Bull," or rather "Tige," as a butcher called him, saw the big woolly, the mongrel and the rat terrier pup, and somehow his interest was excited. "Mongrel," with spine arched, came tiptoeing up, plainly saying, "I'm one of the b'hoys; you'd better travel." Wooly," more wise, sat down upon his haunches to reconnoiter. "Tige" squatted. Rat terrier pup and mongrel, taking this as a sign of weakness, sailed in; there was a growl, just one—a deep, bass, gutteral note—and rat terrier pup found himself somersaulting backward, while mongrel lay upon his back with something chewing away at his shoulder. Woolly gravely stood back and saw the thing well done. Subsequent proceedings interested the terrier pup no more, for he streaked it

The Superintendent may be justified in his conclusion, but the public will be slow to believe any such yarn, especially when the For sale by Jesse E. At the end of nearly a week of travel, the party went into camp near a shabby village which was caving, house by house, into the hungry Mississippi. The river astonished treatment extended to Mrs. Jacob Eldridge the children beyond measure.
